Headline:
Cloud and rain clearing overnight. Turning cold Sunday with showers.

This Evening and Tonight:
A largely fine, dry but cloudy evening. Cloud thickening towards midnight, with some light rain possible before clearing south during the early hours of Sunday. Clearer, colder weather then following by dawn, with a cold northerly breeze developing. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Sunday:
Largely sunny start, but feeling cold in brisk winds. Cloud building through the morning, although most parts staying dry. A few showers are possible, most frequent and heaviest across Kent. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Lengthy sunny spells but also occasional cloud, especially in east. Showers possible in the east throughout. Breezy along coasts, but temperatures recovering near average Tuesday. Fog patches possible early Wednesday.
